Using <http://diospringfield.org/about/bishopRozanskilcrest.html>, write what each part of Bishop Rozanski's coat of arms symbolizes. If there is a line, you need to only write the name of the item. If there is a box, please explain. Please note some arrows are pointing to colors and not to objects.

The image shows the coat of arms of Bishop Rozanski. It features a central shield with a red cross on a white background, a blue and white wavy pattern, and a red and white striped section. Above the shield is a golden cross and a green rope with tassels. A banner at the bottom reads "SERVE THE LORD WITH GLADNESS". The coat of arms is surrounded by several empty boxes and arrows pointing to specific elements, indicating where to write descriptions.

Arrows point to the following elements:

- Top: A large empty box for the overall crest.
- Left: A horizontal line for the green rope.
- Right: Three empty boxes for the shield's quarters.
- Bottom: A horizontal line for the banner.
- Bottom: A large empty box for the entire coat of arms.

Special thanks to Deacon Paul Sullivan of the Diocese of Providence who designed the coat of arms and wrote the description.
